SOCIAL AND EMOTIONAL SKILLS SPELL SCHOOL SUCCESS AND READINESS ONLINE CLASS (2 clock hours)

CLASS DESCRIPTION: Preparing a child for school success is a lot more than ABCs and 123s. Research now shows that the traditional, academic skills (sometimes known as the three R's) come easier to children who have strong social and emotional skills. Learn concrete ways to promote social and emotional skills that will translate into school success down the line.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES: As a result of this training, participants will be able to:

- Recognize that social and emotional skills are important for school readiness and success
- List key social and emotional skills that are needed for school success
- Identify how each skill is needed for academic success
- Give examples of ways to promote these important skills

WHAT OTHERS ARE SAYING:

It was very useful for me to be reminded that we all learn in different manners. I thought the ideas for teaching different skills to different learners were great. It is also great to focus on kindergarten readiness. I want the children I care for to have the best tools possible for succeeding in school.

– Sherrie F., TX

I found that the most important part for me was to realize that social and emotional skills are directly tied to success in school.

– Rachel H., GA

I loved the activities that were in the reading and the two that I used for my assignments. I learned a lot about helping the children with their emotions and will use this on a daily basis.

– Stephanie H., FL

This class was very eye-opening. In the school where I have been working, we teach follow a three-year-old curriculum with our two-year-old class. This takes a lot of time, effort, and creativity. It puts a lot of focus on academics that most of the kids aren't ready for. This class made it clear to me how important it is to focus on social and emotional skills with two-year-olds, and gave lots of ideas on how to do this.
